CAN YOU GUESS.

Here's a Chance to Make
Ten Dollars Easy.

All You Have to Do Is to Pick the Winners in the Coming
Primary.

Just for the interest attached to a guessing contest, and to put a little more interest into the coming campaign for County officers, THE NEWS will give its readers a chance to make ten dollars and have a little fun at guessing on the side.

To the person making the first nearest correct guess of the winners in the Democratic Primary Election which will be held in this county on Saturday, June 1st, 1901, THE NEWS will present a ten dollar gold piece. The conditions of the contest are simple. Old subscribers and new subscribers who pay $2 on their subscriptions will each be entitled to a guess, and to as many guesses as they pay year's subscription. If no one guesses correctly, the first one who guesses the closest to all the winners will receive the ten dollars.

You intend to pay your subscription anyway, and you may as well pay before the first day of June and have a chance of getting your money back, besides gaining the distinction of knowing more about the political situation than your neighbors.

Each guess will be registered when received as to the exact day, hour and minute. No one will be permitted to see how any one else has guessed. In guessing only the offices on the ballot are to be considered.

The Universal Cry—Wanted, a Man.

Never did the world call more loudly for young men with force, energy and purpose, young men trained to do some one thing, than today. Though hundreds of thousands are out of employment, yet never before was it so hard to get a good employee for almost any position as today. Everywhere people are asking where to find a good servant, a polite and efficient clerk, an honest cashier, a good stenographer who can spell and punctuate and is generally well informed. Managers and superintendents of great institutions everywhere are hunting for good people to fill all sorts of positions. They tell us that it is almost impossible to find efficient help for any department.

There are hundreds of applicants for every vacant place, but they either show signs of dissipation, are rude or gruff in manner, are slovenly or slipshod in dress, are afraid of hard work, lack education or training or have some fatal defects which bar them out. Even if they are given positions very few are able to hold them, and so this great army of tramps about from store to store, from office to factory, wondering why others succeed when they fail, why others get the positions when they are denied.

The head of one large commercial establishment says that the blunders and mistakes of its employees cost $25,000 a year to correct, notwithstanding his utmost vigilance.—Success.

Poor of Prehistoric Man.

Upon examining some skulls dating back from the stone age Mr. Charters White, M. R. C. S., noted that several of the teeth, although quite free from caries, were thickly coated with tartar. It occurred to him that it would be possible by a rough analysis to identify any particles of food that might be imbedded in this natural concrete and so reveal the character of the aliment partaken of by prehistoric man. Dissolving the tartar in a weak acid, a residue was left which, under the microscope, was found to consist of corn-husk particles, hairs from the outside of the husks, spiral vessels from vegetables, particles of starch, the point of a fish tooth, a conglomeration of oval cells probably of fruit, the barbellets of down and portions of wool.

In addition to this varied list were some round red bodies the origin of which defied detection and many sandy particles, some relating to quartz and some to flint. These mineral fragments were very likely attributable to the rough stones used in grinding the corn and would account for the erosion of the masticating surfaces, which in many cases was strongly marked. This inquiry into the food of men who lived not less than 4,000 years ago is a matter of great archaeological interest.—Chambers Journal.

Poor Opera Glasses.

"Cheap opera glasses are an abomination," said an eye specialist recently. "There is no doubt about this. I have made a special study of the matter. Lots of eyes are nearly ruined by them. I find this particularly true of young girls who go a great deal to the theater and who seem to think they must have opera glasses. To their way of thinking an opera glass is an opera glass, and that's all there is to it. So they buy cheap ones and then wonder why they have such headaches."

"Unless the very best lenses are used I should advise everybody to taboo opera glasses. The farther from the stage one is the better and more perfect the glasses should be. Exactly the reverse of this is actually the case, for the people who sit in the rear seats or in the balcony are usually the ones who have the poorest glasses. A performance viewed with the naked eye is much more satisfactory, to my way of thinking. An opera glass gives but a limited view, and only the one object on which it is focused is visible. I don't see why people use even the best of them."—Philadelphia Record.

The Minister Won.

A minister was one day walking along a road, and to his astonishment, he saw a crowd of boys sitting in the center of a ring with a small dog in the center. When he came up to them, he put the following question: "What are you doing to the dog?"

"One little boy said, 'Whoever tells the minister lies wins it.'"

"Oh," said the minister, "I am surprised at you little boys, for when I was like you I never told a lie."

There was silence for awhile until one of the boys shouted, "Hand him up the dog!"—London Leader.

Over in Sweden.

"Over in Sweden the suburban railway lines have to provide a freight car for intoxicated persons."

"I don't suppose they label it that way, do they?"

"I don't know. Probably they brand it either 'Spirits in packages' or else 'Hardware.'"

"Yes, Skates."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dickens' Supremacy.

"So this, then, is your husband's new library, Mrs. Muchroxy? Ah, I see he has Dickens and Thackeray side by side. Which do you consider the greater of the two?"

"Oh, my, Dickens! Joshua paid $2.40 more for them Dickens than he had to give for Thackeray's books right at the same shop."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The pain produced by a hornet's sting is caused by a poison injected into the wound, and so instantaneous is its effect as to cause the attack of this insect to resemble a violent blow in the face.

A Modern Politician.

"My son," said the fond but wise parent, "you are leaving me to go out into the world. I have nothing to give you but advice. Never tell a lie. If you wish to put one in circulation, get it published. A lie cannot live, but it takes one a blamed long time to fade out of print."

"Always read your contract. A man might consider he was getting a slice of pie if he were offered a position piecing blossoms off a century plant; but, you see, he wouldn't have a remunerative occupation if he were paid on piecework."

"Be not overcritical. Even the most ordinary sort of a genius can tell when the other fellow is making a fool of himself."

"Remember that the young man, like the angler's worm, is rather better for being visibly alive."

"If the skin is broken over the burn, use the oil without the soda. Otherwise moisten the soda with olive oil or sweet oil or even lard or cold cream and apply it. Over this wrap the cloth. Cotton batting is often used for covering the burn and keeping out the air, but it is not to be recommended. It is not a good plan to use flour, dusting it over a burn, for it frequently hardens and is of little comfort."

"One of the simplest measures for a superficial burn is to apply the white of an egg with a soft piece of old muslin, adding more as it dries."

An Anecdote of Verdi.

The first production of Verdi's opera "Otello" took place at Milan, and all the prominent musical critics of Europe foregathered in the Cathedral City in honor of the occasion. Among them was a Parisian journalist of wide reputation and admitted authority in the musical world. His first care on his arrival in Milan was to seek out Verdi and seek to be allowed to be present at one of the final rehearsals.

The composer received him with extreme politeness, but replied that he could not possibly grant his request, as he had decided that the rehearsals were to be absolutely private, and he could not make an exception in the favor of any one journalist, however distinguished.

The Paris critic, far from pleased at this answer, protested that in these circumstances his account of the opera might not be all he should like it to be. "You see," he explained to the composer, who affected not quite to understand, "I shall have to telegraph my article the same evening. It will necessarily be hastily written, and the impression in Paris the next day may suffer in consequence."

But Verdi was more than equal to the occasion. "My dear sir," he made answer, "I do not write for the 'next day.' The critic bowed himself out."

Uttering an Anecdote.

A self-made man with a taste for art, thinking he would like to have about his house some marble presentments of his ancestors, ordered of a fifth rate sculptor a bust of his grandfather.

In due time it was sent home, and after a few days, his admiration being exhausted, the wealthy man sent for his plumber.

"I don't mind confessing to you," said the former, "that I don't appreciate the fine arts unless they are turned to some useful purpose. Now, I have something to suggest to you."

And he proceeded to give some instructions to the tradesman.

A week later, on the anniversary of his birthday, the millionaire pointed out with pride to his guests in the middle of his conservatory the bust of his grandfather, from the top of whose head rose gracefully a jet of limpid water, falling into a marble basin in which some fine gold and silver fish disported themselves.—Christian Endeavor World.

Reaching an Understanding.

The young man was visibly annoyed at the questions which the heiress' father insisted on putting. At last he could endure it no longer. His ancestral pride flamed up into his cheeks, and he exclaimed:

"I would have you understand that I am no ordinary fortune hunter."

"That's all right," was the stern rejoinder. "I am just as particular as you are. I'd have you understand that I am no plain, everyday duke chaser either."—Washington Star.

A Terrible Conflagration.

The largest and most terrible fire in the history of Florida occurred at Jacksonville last Friday. The losses are estimated at many millions. Ten thousand persons were made homeless, six lives lost, and the entire business and residential sections of the city are in ashes. Miles of blocks were burned.

The city building went, then in turn the fire department building, the armory, the county court house, clerks' office, with county records, criminal court house, city jail, graded schools, Catholic Church and orphanage, St. John's Episcopal Church and the convent. Almost the entire city of magnificent buildings was burned up in less than four hours. Chief Haney, of the Fire Department, became insane as the fire spread beyond his control, and had to be taken in charge.

STORIES OF THE STAGE.

Coming Attractions, Gossip In the Lobby and Boxes

MR. WALKER WHITESIDE.

The engagement of Mr. Walker Whiteside at the Opera House to-night in the romantic drama "Heart and Sword," promises to be a society event. Two box parties have already been arranged, and it is understood all of the boxes are to be taken.

For several years Mr. Whiteside has devoted himself almost entirely to the production of Shakespearean and other classic plays. His several New York City engagements were given over to the magnificent scenic productions of Bard's great tragedies. The "Hamlet," production, it will be recalled was a splendid one, gorgeous and complete in every detail. Last season Mr. Whiteside made a notable presentation of Stanley Weyman's "Man in Black" and this season he will be seen in what is said to be one of the strongest romantic plays written. The title of this new play is "Heart and Sword," a translation from the German. The play is neither tragic nor bombastic in tone. It is a pure love story, modern in treatment and containing much comedy of the higher order. The company in support of Mr. Whiteside is said to be an excellent one, including Miss Lelia Wolstan. Secure your seats to-day at Brooks'.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

A great many of our music loving public have often expressed a desire to have some of our great musical artists appear in our city. The appearance of Kathryn Michelsena, the prima donna, will give them an opportunity of hearing three great musical artists. Miss Michelsena enjoys the distinction of being one of America's greatest singers. She will be assisted by Oliver Kiler, the violinist, and Mrs. Robert Goldbeck, the pianist. Mrs. Goldbeck is the wife of the celebrated composer, Robert Goldbeck, and she is recognized as the most brilliant pianist in Chicago. Her touch is instinctively sensitive and musical. Her hands are remarkably supple and alert for difficulty of execution, combined with rare conception of harmony and counterpoint, unusual in any except the most highly trained musicians. The tickets for this attractions will be on sale at Brooks' to-morrow morning. Admission, 50 cts., 75 cts. and $1.

"Don't."

[Lexington Democrat.]

Those Bourbon county boys who bet on Driscoll to win the Derby had not only the faith of Wood Clay in his colt, but some superstition as gay lines to their opinions. An Australian lady who had dreamed the winner of the Melbourne Cup one time wrote to Kentucky that she had seen the key colt Driscoll scampering under the wire winner of the Kentucky Derby. This was weeks before the event at Churchill Downs, and it got spread over Bourbon county by the whisper route. Now, every time the question of the dream is referred to the sporty boys around Paris put up their hands and say: "Don't."

WIGGINS (2) 2:19 1-2.

Dark bay horse, 15 hands 3 inches; foaled 1893. By Aberdeen, sire of Ky. Union 2:07 1-4, Dentine 2:18 1-4, Alabaster (4) 2:15 and sixty others in 2:30.

1st dam, Albina de Mer (dam of Wiggins (2) 2:19 1-2 and Mabel Monypeny (2) 2:30, her first two colts trained) by Standard 2:07 1-2.

2nd dam, Belle Blanche, by The Moor, sire of Beautiful Bells, the dam of 8 in 2:30 list.

3rd dam, Bell View Maid, dam of Center 2:29 1-2, by Idol 177.

4th dam, by Pilot, Jr., sire of dam of Maud S, 2:08 3-4, Jay Eye See 2:10.

WIGGINS is a deep, rich-colored bay horse of perfect conformation and possesses every trait and quality that go to make up an ideal stallion. As a sire he has started in six races and won five straight without losing a heat and has taken a mark of 2:15 or better. He is a horse of magnificent style and appearance and has proven himself true to his royal pedigree in every respect. He is a young horse in the stud and thus far has had limited opportunities, but his colts show remarkable speed with pure gait and level head. According to his worth and attainments, he stands to-day at a lower fee than any stallion in Kentucky. Send your best mare to him now if you want a trotter and a fortune.

Preparations for the Carnival.

The Silver Jubilee Carnival of Garth Lodge, No. 43, A. O. U. W., to celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary, which will be held on Wednesday, June 13th, from all indications will be the biggest thing of the kind ever seen in Paris. The general committee met Sunday and a line of work was laid out and the various sub-committees appointed, and by the end of the week the affair will be under good headway.

The amusement committee is negotiating with the inventor of a new flying machine, which is said to be a success, and if the deal is carried out the people of Paris will have the opportunity of witnessing one of the greatest inventions of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. As a part of the parade the committee offers a handsome prize for the handiest decorated vehicle, more especially pony outfit. Entries for this prize are free, but must be sent to the office of THE BOURBON NEWS on or before Monday, June 10th.

The display of day fireworks will be something entirely new to the people of this city and county. A one hundred dollar order has already been placed with the oldest and largest fireworks house in the country, Messrs. Pain & Son, of New York. The NEWS is requested to ask the merchants to contribute in every way they can to insure the success of the carnival. There will be an enormous crowd in town that day, and the merchants will, of course, profit from it. A large amount of printing will be spread broadcast over the county advertising the affair. An edition of fifteen thousand of an advertising program will be issued, and the committee will go around soliciting advertisements of it. They will pay for the advertisements of home merchants, but if they cannot be secured will get them from outside cities. It will be a big thing and will tend to stir up a little enthusiasm in the old town without taking any money out of circulation here. It behooves every body to do all they can to make it a big success.

A Nuisance Which Can Be Abated

Sunday was a lovely day. At both the morning and evening services the churches were crowded with worshippers, and in the afternoon the streets were full of pedestrians decked in their Spring attire. There was only one thing to mar the thorough enjoyment of the beautiful day, and that was the clouds of dust which filled the air, and resembled an East India simoon. It penetrated the portals of the churches and covered the worshippers with a coating of white until it made them resemble a convention of millers. Hundreds of Spring hats were practically ruined, and many a man on his way home from church with an easy conscience and contrite heart gave way to profanity.

There is no reason why the streets should not be sprinkled on Sunday as well as during the week. There is certainly more travel on that day than any other during the week. It is the one day of rest and recreation for the poor laboring man. If he takes his family out for a walk when they arrive home they look as though they had been having a free-for-all wrestling match in the highway. A good soaking of the streets in the early morning and another at noon would be sufficient to insure the laying of the dust and contribute greatly to the enjoyment of the day as well as a saving of much profanity. The merchants complain that when they open their stores on Monday morning it is a half day's work to clean their stocks of the dust which has accumulated during Sunday.

The winner to receive as his absolute property a handsome sterling silver loving cup, emblematic of the Amateur Championship at Targets of the Blue Grass Region of Kentucky, for the year 1901, and 40 per cent of the purse. To second 30 per cent, to third 20 per cent and to fourth 10 per cent of the purse. Events Nos. 9, 10 and 11, at 15 targets, entrance $1.50. These events are for amateurs only; experts are barred from participation in the shoots for prizes, but are cordially invited to be present. The club extends a cordial invitation to ladies to be present. Lunch can be obtained on the ground.

I HAVE decided to quit handling carpets and I offer my entire stock at cost. 1t HARRY SIMON.

Special Display of Summer Hats.

On next Saturday, May 11th, Mrs. L. B. Conway & Co., will have a display of summer hats at their handsome store room opposite the Hotel Fordham which it will pay every lady in the county to see. The stock was specially selected, and is one of the finest ever brought to Paris. The ladies should all remember the date—Saturday, May 11. We will have on display a number of swell pattern hats.

A Champion Coming.

A most important item at the shoot given by the Blue Grass Gun Club next Thursday at their grounds, will be the appearance of "Jack" Fanning, the champion target shooter of the world. Mr. Fanning will give an exhibition shoot, during the day and it will undoubtedly be witnessed by a large crowd. The ladies are specially invited to attend.

Dr. C. H. BOWEN, the optician, will be at A. J. Winters & Co.'s next Thursday, the 9th inst.

Arrest Of a Murderer.

Frank Brooks, alias Tom Smith, a colored farm hand, who killed Jeff Butler in this county on the night of March 23, and has since been a fugitive from justice, was arrested at Dayton, Ohio, last week. Deputy Sheriff W. W. Mitchell will go to Dayton this week and bring him to Paris.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Legend of the Goldenrod.
According to legendary lore, the goldenrod was once snow white. It is said that great fields of these white flowers nodded gracefully to and fro as the winds swept over them and were quite happy until the wild flowers of brilliant hues began to ridicule them.

"What tame, pale, uninteresting creatures!" said the tiger lilies.
"Truly they are!" said the scarlet sage. "They are not worth looking at!"

Other wild flower neighbors made like remarks and cast scornful glances at the white blossoms until the latter bowed their heads and wept.

"We are poor, colorless beggars," they wailed, "while all of our neighbors are clothed in gorgeous apparel!"

The autumn wind knew why the white flowers were grief-stricken, and he resolved to help them. Calling to him the many hued fairies that live in the rainbow, he told them how the white flowers had been ridiculed by their neighbors.

"Leave it all to us," said the fairies, "and soon the ill-treated ones shall have cause to rejoice."

Away sped the fairies to the end of the rainbow, where, as you have heard, there is a great pot of magic gold dust. Together the fairies lifted the gold dust, hastened back to the fields and meadows and sprinkled it lavishly over the drooping, heartless flowers, now sunk in sound slumber.

When morning came, the sun looked down upon a gorgeously arrayed army of goldenrods, and so great was the surprise of their wild flower neighbors that some of them withered and died from sheer envy.

But, rejoicing in their good fortune, the goldenrods proudly held up their heads and faithfully kept guard until the icy winter wind in a hoarse voice bade them to sleep.

A Boy With a Kind Heart.
The other day a horse was trying to get a very small quantity of oats from the depths of a very small nosebag. In vain the poor fellow tossed his head and did his best to gain his dinner. At last, just as he was settling down to dumb and despairing patience a bright faced boy of perhaps 10 or 12 years of age happened along. Seeing the dilemma of the horse, the little fellow stopped and said: "Hello! Can't get your oats, can you? Never mind; I'll fix you!"

And straightway he shortened up the straps that held the bag in place and, with a kindly pat and a cheery word, which the grateful horse seemed to appreciate, went his way. I would like to be the mother or the aunt or even the first cousin to that boy. I would rather that he should belong to me than own a Paganini violin or a first water diamond ring or a Concord grape. Bless his heart, wherever he is, and may he long continue to live in a world that needs him. Kindness of heart and tenderness, consideration for the needs of the helpless and the weak and the courage and dares to be true to a merciful impulse are traits that go far toward the making up of angels. We need tender hearts boys more than we need a new tariff to bring up and develop the resources of the country.—Our Dumb Animals.

Pictures Got Her a Home.
Not many days ago some one was collecting pictures of pretty babies to publish in a Chicago paper and took a photograph of a poor little homeless girl. Soon after the tiny orphan's face, with several others, was published, and a picture containing it fell into the hands of a woman who had a beautiful home, but no child.

Before the great newspaper presses had finished rolling off copies of the edition containing the baby's picture a richly dressed woman appeared in the office, asking where she could find the original of the beautiful little face, and 12 hours later the homeless, nameless waif had been taken away from the institution where charity was keeping her and tucked into a comfortable crib, with plenty of soft, warm clothing, in a home of her own.

One can only wish that every child not born into a happy home could be born with a face that would help it to find a way there as easily as this.

What Was Left.
"Sallie, what is 8 minus 6?"
Sallie could not answer, which was nothing unusual, whereupon the teacher, thinking it might aid her by stating it less abstractly, said:

"Now, Sallie, if your mamma went to the barn and found eight eggs and used six of them to bake a cake, what would she have left?"

With a smile of contempt, Sallie answered, "Why, shells!"

Benny's Frugal Papa.
"Here," said Benny's papa, showing the little fellow a coin, "is a penny 300 years old. It was given to me when I was a boy."

"Well," cried Benny, "just think of any one being able to keep a penny as long as that without spending it!"

Little Peek-a-Boo.
Little Peek-a-Boo comes tripping round the corner of the street, peeking from behind the table, round the sofa and the chair.

First I see the golden rings, then a pair of starry eyes, sweet with mirth, with laughter shining, to have noted my presence.

As the rosy lips half parted, say in full, sweet baby tones, "Peek-a-boo! I see you!"

Sometimes when the shadows lengthen and the moonlight thought descends that the web of life I'm weaving may prove only tangled coils, presto! Change! away with sadness! Ah, those tangled coils I see, and I think with joy exultant, life is sweet for you and me.

Round my chair he comes a-peaking, says in full, sweet baby tones, "Peek-a-boo! I see you!"

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Cleveland's New Mayor.
After a few years of comparative retirement from the field of public affairs Tom L. Johnson of Ohio is once more in the game. Recently elected mayor of Cleveland after an exciting and sensational campaign, he has assumed control of the office in highly dramatic fashion. It has been the custom for mayors elect of Cleveland to take office on the 10th of April. Mr. Johnson walked into the mayor's office,

A TOM JOHNSON ATTITUDE.

with his certificate of election in his hand, on the 4th of April and informed Mayor Farley that he was excused from further service. It is alleged that this move was made to prevent Mayor Farley from granting certain privileges to the Pennsylvania company in the closing hours of his administration. It was a coup d'etat so thoroughly Johnsonian as to create little surprise.

Mr. Branigan's Advancement.
Mr. Frank M. Branigan, who was recently appointed to the responsible position of treasurer of the provisional government of the Philippine Islands at a salary of $8,000 per annum, is well known in Washington, where he has a long career in the government service, and his rapid advancement is due to his natural ability and thorough conscientiousness and attention to duty.

After a short service in the treasury department in a subordinate clerical capacity he was appointed disbursing clerk at the department of justice. His success in that office resulted in his transfer to the office of disbursing clerk of the state department at a time when the affairs of that office were in a complicated condition. He was the disbursing officer of the Paris peace commission, and on the organization of the present Philippine commission he was placed in charge of the disbursement of the funds of that body. That he performed the duties of that office in a highly satisfactory manner is indicated by his present appointment as treasurer of the Philippines.—Washington Star.

She is Still a Leader.
Although the Empress Frederick of Germany has clung to English modes of thought and life, the Germans look upon her as a model German wife and mother. It is claimed that to her the women of Prussia owe much for their improved intellectual and social condition and the betterment of wage earners.

Good hearted old Jack rushed to the rescue and broke the deadly silence with, "Have any of you had trouble with getting good butter lately?"

The food gates of conversation were opened, and young and old sallied out on the stream. Boarding school college club, summer hotel and "gilt edge" butter were discussed and talked of, and amid peals of laughter the dinner was ended.

The men smoked, going as they pleased conversationally, and the ladies in the drawing room carried on the conversation on the lines laid down by their host at dinner.

After every one had gone Jack said, with an air of conscious rectitude, "Well, Mary, that dinner went off pretty well, didn't it?"

"Jack," she said hysterically, "where did you put your list, and why did you talk of such awful things?"

"Awful things? Why, I talked about every single thing you wrote down, and I thought I kept them pretty well. Old Mrs. Bangs squeezed my hand when she left and said she wished she could always sit by me at dinner. They all said it was a jolly dinner."

"But what made you talk about most and Jane's aprons and—oh, Jack, it was too dreadful!"

"Great Scott, Mary, didn't you give me the list? Here it is. See! It begins: 'Speak about tough meat. Speak about Jane's apron. Last better from grocer's pad.' I talked about them all just as you asked me to, and if I hadn't I think your dinner party would have been pretty dull."

Mary took the list. It was her memorandum for the day. On the back of it she had written the list of subjects for Jack. Unfortunately or fortunately, it depends upon the point of view in pinning it on the tablecloth the memorandum side was uppermost.

Their guests are talking still of that delightful dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Black—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The Belles at the Ball.
I went to one given by the Pickwick Club, probably the swiftest organization in New Orleans. It was a large gathering of well dressed people from all over the south. As I was a stranger a member of the club pointed out to me the belle of New Orleans, the belle of St. Louis, the belle of Savannah, the belle of Louisville, the belle of Nashville, the belle of Richmond, and—while we got no farther north than Richmond—there were no belles there coming from north of Mason and Dixon's line.

I confess I was surprised at the number of belles bailing from the south. There were about 1,000 ladies there, and about 950 of them were belles. I think the old 50 must have been chaperons.—Argonaut.

ON THE WRONG SIDE

"This town," said Mrs. Jack, "needs improving. I am shocked when I dine out to hear nothing but nonsense talked. I shall give a dinner and have the conversation up to a certain standard."

Before the dinner came off Jack said: "I tell you, Mary, that I can never talk at a dinner. I don't know what to say."

"Never mind, Jack, dear. I know that you are positively no good at a dinner party. Now, listen. I have written out a list of interesting subjects and pinned it on the tablecloth. And she led him up to the table. "Now, don't fail me, but whenever it seems dull or people are not talking look at this list and talk of some of the things. Even if you don't know about them, appeal to me, and I'll help you out. There is!"

Just then the doorbell rang, and Mrs. Jack hurried away to greet the first guest.

After they were seated at dinner Mrs. Jack asked the guest of honor if he had seen the recent views on the nebular hypothesis. The answer to her question and the interest in the subject were so slight that she looked at Jack, and he came valiantly to the rescue. "It does not seem to me, Mary," he called out, "that the meat has been unusually tough lately."

"What do you mean, Jack?" Jack looked perplexed, but Mrs. Bangs was quite animated, and she and the elderly man next her had a discussion as to butchers and meat that was eager enough to let Mrs. Jack get her bearings again.

The next subject she introduced was "the recent affair in South Africa." The interest in anything but Oom Paul's excessive plainness was not marked, and after a few desultory views had been expressed the conversation died out.

"So sorry," thought Jack and looked at his list. "Speak about Jane's aprons" came next. "I don't know what to say about Jane's aprons, but things seem pretty dull, so I'll dash ahead as I was told to."

"I say, Mary, what's the matter with Jane's aprons? Aren't they all right? They look like the proper thing."

Visions of the husband of her youth at Morris Plains asylum danced before Mrs. Jack's eyes. Aprons! What was the matter with them?

When she had recovered a little, she heard the most elderly man saying to Mrs. Bangs: "Now, can you imagine me in a check apron with a leather belt? I always wore them when I was a boy."

The elderly woman described black silk and other aprons of their youth, and the younger ones laughed merrily. Mrs. Jack rather cleverly steered the conversation around to her point again and asked generally, with a "don't all speak at once" air, "Who has read the 'History of Pajamas in the Nineteenth Century'?"

After expressing admiration for the work of Professor Nippold there was another silence, broken by one of the young men, who said, "What a thin old gentleman the pope is!"

Good hearted old Jack rushed to the rescue and broke the deadly silence with, "Have any of you had trouble with getting good butter lately?"
